

LIVING ETC
 APRIL 2017
 MARIN

THE URBAN ELECTRIC Co.

DARK LUXE

A moody palette of ink blue, smoky grey and rich wood brings depth and drama to these private spaces

PHOTOGRAPHY (SHOW LAND) DENNIS LO (MATERIAL GAINS) MATTHEW MULLMAN

← Material gains

In recent years, an explosion of new materials and surfaces for the bathroom has broadened the vocabulary for unique interiors, creating exciting designs in brushed metals, dark wood and striking stone.

GET THE LOOK This scheme is by Martin Group (martingroup.co.uk). The basin, unit and tap, from £3,250, are from the Must collection by Altamarea, available in the UK at NGI Design (ngidesign.co.uk). These Marin lights in walnut and polished nickel, approx £1,058 each, are by The Urban Electric Co (urbanelectricco.com).

Shadow land ↑

Deep colours can be used to great effect. With glam fittings and a lighting scheme that shines just where it needs to, the mood here is intimate.

GET THE LOOK This design is by House of Beast (houseofbeast.com). The Cog Stack lights, £185 each, are by Tom Dixon (tomdixon.net). The Malachite wallpaper, from the Fornasetti collection at Cole & Son (coleandson.com), is £90 per roll. This is the Adnet Circulaire mirror, from £499, by Gubi (gubidk.com). This is the Latis basin, £789.75, by Ormivo, available in the UK through West One Bathrooms (westonebathrooms.com).