Style

conjuring elegance

A truly elegant space doesn't just delight the eye; it puts you at ease. Neither shocking nor showy, the most stylish rooms invite you in, revealing their beauty slowly. Details emerge, colors make their presence felt, and you become immersed in a world as fascinating as it is comfortable.

The library's Louis XVI table is surrounded by Louis XIV chairs, the glass shelves are custom made, and the cabinet is by André Sornay; the Couturier-designed armchairs are upholstered in a cashmere by Chapas Textiles. FACING PAGE: The console and mirror in the hallway are by Josef Hoffmann, and the rug is by Fernand Léger; a portrait by Sébastien de Ganay and photographs by Ron Agam and Adam Fuss are reflected in the mirror. In the living room vestibule, works by Gerald Incandela hang above a pair of mahogany cabinets by Jean-Michel Frank; the Turkish kilim is antique. See Resources.
