COMPILED BY EMMA FOALE

EASY ON THE EYE

With a hidden kitchen, the idea of 'out of sight, out of mind' is brought to life with the way in which essential appliances and storage can be concealed. Combining the Italian way with attention to craftsmanship and Japanese experimentation and detail, the Ki kitchen designed by Nendo for Scavolini challenges the look and feel of our cooking and sociable spaces. Kitchens start from £30,000. multiliving.co.uk

Right on time

What do we love most about these on-trend concrete clocks? They don't tick! The handcrafted oak hands move with a silent sweeping mechanism. All you have to do is decide if you want the grey or white to offset your kitchen scheme. They're £99 each. oggetto.com.

Take YOUR PICK

Made exclusively for Selfridges by independent designers, this new collection of homewares combines British-made craft with the department store's distinctive yellow colour. From a tea pot and shopping bag to stoneware and a chopping board, don't miss the 'Makers for Selfridges' collection curated by Friends & Co. Prices start from £18. selfridges.com.
